CONSTITUENCY BOUNDARIES COMMISSION

INTERIM REPORT

The Constituency Boundaries Commission of Saskatchewan was established by The Constituency Boundaries Act, 1993, S.S. 1993, c. C-27.1 and consists of:

The Honourable Madam Justice E. J. Gunn (chairperson);
Stuart G. Pollon, CA, CPA; and Larry Deters.

The chairperson was appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council following her nomination by the Chief Justice of Saskatchewan, pursuant to subsection 5(2)(b) of the Act. The other members of the Commission were appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council after consultation with the leaders of the opposition parties in the Legislative Assembly.

Stuart G. Pollon, CA, CPA was appointed by the Commission as its deputy chairperson.

Section 12 of the Act directs the Commission to prepare a report containing the Commission's recommendations respecting constituency boundaries for 56 proposed constituencies lying south of a northern dividing line. In addition the Commission is directed to provide boundary descriptions for each of the 56 proposed constituencies and the proposed name for each constituency.

The "dividing line" referred to is defined by subsection 2(e) of the Act as follows:

2e) "dividing line" means the line that:

(i) divides Saskatchewan into a northern area and southern area; and

(ii) is described in the Schedule to this Act.

The schedule is set out in Appendix "D" to this report.

Subsection 13(1) of the Act provides as follows:

13(1) In preparing its report respecting proposed constituencies south of the dividing line, a commission shall establish a constituency population quotient in accordance with subsection (2).

(2) The constituency population quotient is to be calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$CPQ = \frac{TP - NP}{56}$$

CPQ is the constituency population quotient;
TP is the total population; and
NP is the northern population.

The "total population" is defined by subsection 2(k) as "... the total population of Saskatchewan as determined pursuant to the census that a commission is established to consider." The "northern population" is defined by subsection 2(h) of the Act as "... that part of the total population which is north of the dividing line as estimated by a commission."

The Commission is required by subsection 3(1) of the Act to base its report on the 2001 census which shows the total population of Saskatchewan to be 978,933. On the basis of information provided by Statistics Canada, the Commission estimated the population north of the dividing line as 32,029. The constituency population quotient for the 56 constituencies south of the dividing line is therefore 16,909.

Section 14 of the Act provides:

14(1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), in determining the area to be included in a proposed constituency south of the dividing line and in fixing the boundaries of that constituency, a commission shall ensure that the population of each proposed constituency is, as nearly as possible, equal to the constituency population quotient.

(2) A commission may depart from the requirements of subsection (1) where, in its opinion, it is necessary to do so because of:

(a) special geographic considerations, including:

(i) sparsity, density or relative rates of growth of population in various regions south of the dividing line;

(ii) accessibility to the regions mentioned in subclause (i); or

(iii) the size and shape of the regions described in subclause (i);

(b) a special community of interests or diversity of interests of persons residing in regions south of the dividing line; or

(c) physical features of regions south of the dividing line.

(3) A commission shall ensure that the population of each constituency south of the dividing line remains within 5%, either more or less, of the constituency population quotient.

(4) A commission shall fix as the boundaries of the constituencies north of the dividing line those boundaries that are prescribed in The Representation Act, 1989 for the constituencies of Athabasca and Cumberland.

The 5% tolerance permitted by subsection 14(3) is 845 persons and thus the maximum number of persons allowed within a proposed constituency south of the dividing line is 17,754 and the minimum number is 16,064.

After considering a number of draft maps prepared by the Commission's technical staff pursuant to directions given, the Commission decided to divide Regina into 11 constituencies and Saskatoon into 12 constituencies. Two of the proposed constituencies in each City are composed of both urban and rural populations. The populations of the Cities of Moose Jaw and Prince Albert are such that each is divided into two proposed constituencies. The remainder of the province is divided into 29 proposed constituencies.

In each instance the Commission attempted to comply with the provisions of subsection 14(1) and (2) of the Act while mindful of the 5% deviation from the constituency population quotient permitted by subsection 14(3) of the Act.

The increase in the number of proposed constituencies in Saskatoon resulted from a significant change in the population in Saskatoon since the electoral boundaries were established in 1993 after the census of 1991. This then resulted in one fewer constituency in rural Saskatchewan as a result of declining population in certain areas.

It should also be noted that the population of the two northern constituencies shows a disparity of 5,947 voters between Athabasca and Cumberland. The terms of reference of the Commission do not permit it to correct this population imbalance.

The Commission was appointed on April 9, 2002. Unfortunately the Commission was unable to meet the deadline imposed by the Act to provide an interim report within three months of its establishment. Consequently, the Commission requested an extension of time to file its interim report which was granted by the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

Section 20 of the Act permits the Commission to hold hearings to consider representations with respect to the proposals contained in this interim report. The Commission proposes to hold public hearings as follows:

Rules Applying to Descriptions of Proposed Constituencies

1. In the following descriptions where the words "meridians" and "boundaries of townships" or "boundaries of sections" are referred to as the boundaries of constituencies, these expressions mean the meridians, boundaries of townships or boundaries of sections, as the case may be, in accordance with the dominion land survey system.
2. Where a dividing line between two ranges is mentioned as the boundary of a constituency, the expression means the surveyed line on the east boundary of the west range and the extension of that line southerly to intersect the north boundary of the township that lies to the south of a correction line and thence easterly along the north boundary of said township to the east boundary thereof.
3. Where the north boundary of a township is mentioned as the boundary of a constituency, and a jog exists between the north boundaries of the township on either side of a dividing line, the expression means that the boundary of the constituency follows along the portion of the dividing line that extends between the respective north boundaries of the township.
4. Where boundaries of sections are mentioned as the boundary of the constituency and a correction line or jog exists between two section boundaries described, the expression means that the boundary of the constituency follows along the portion of the north boundary of a township or dividing line that extends between the respective section boundaries described.
5. Where the left bank of a river or creek is mentioned as the boundary of a constituency, the expression means the bank of that river or creek on the left side of a person going in the direction in which the water flows.
6. Where in the following descriptions reference is made to "meridian", "township" or "range" and the meridian, township or range lies outside the portion of the province subdivided in accordance with the provisions of The Land Surveys Act, 2000, the reference is taken to be in accordance with the projection of the meridian, township or range as defined in the Act.
7. When a constituency boundary cuts through a hamlet, village or town, and that hamlet, village or town has been specifically mentioned in the constituency description, the boundary is to include the area of lesser population as lying within the constituency in which the part with the greater population lies.
8. Where reference in descriptions of boundaries is made to limits or incorporated limits of any village, town or city, the reference means those limits defined as of April, 2002.
